

COHEAO

Coalition of Higher Education Assistance Organization

September Financial Wellness Newsletter

YOUR MONTHLY NEWS & UPDATES

Lauren Simmons, 23-Year-Old NYSE Stockbroker, Discusses Financial Literacy

Lauren Simmons, the youngest female stockbroker to work on the New York Stock Exchange full-time, sat down with TheStreet's Anders Keitz and Katherine Ross to discuss financial literacy.

Simmons said there should be courses in schools to teach children the basics of finance, such as balancing a checkbook and learning about savings and checking accounts.

Read More

Financial Literacy 2018 Legislation

The financial world that consumers must navigate has changed significantly and grown more complex, increasing the need for financial literacy and raising questions regarding consumers' financial capability.

Read More

The State of Financial Wellness

in America

The journey to financial wellness is deeply personal. It impacts our health, state of mind, family dynamic and our work. Explore the challenges Americans are facing today, and see where you stand on the path to financial wellness.

Where Do You Stand?

