

Zen and the Art of Financial Literacy

Despite the awareness of their debt and the need to repay that debt, the current college student is pulled between living for the moment or planning for the future. Do they have to decide?

READ MORE

U.S. Cracks Down on Debt Collection of Private Student Loans

Yet further proof to keep track of your paperwork! A student loan servicer and their debt collector are ordered to repay loan payments collected incorrectly and falsely.

READ MORE

Financially Illiterate College Borrowers Drop Out at 30% Rate

The correlation between debt and stress are very well documented. But for college students, that stress can lead to dropping out and have lifelong consequences.

READ MORE

Lennar Targets Millennials with Mortgage that Pays Off Their Student Loans

A mortgage company seeks putting home ownership back in the hands of cash-strapped Millennials with an innovative new program to purchase a home and pay off your student loans in one shot!

READ MORE